Appendix 1 – Remote Learning Guidance Springfield Academy

Springfield Academy Teacher & Pupil Remote/Online Learning Guidance Document for Staff

Introduction

This document sets out clear guidance for staff relating to what are the acceptable procedures to be followed and rules to be adhered to when engaging pupils in remote or online learning.

This document should be read in conjunction with the following Trust policies:

- E-Safety Policy
- Code of Conduct for Trust employees
- Disciplinary Policy
- Protecting Children from Extremism and Radicalisation Policy
- Safeguarding and Child Protection Policy
- Staff Social Media Policy
- GDPR Data Protection Policy

For the purposes of this document, remote or online learning refers to the delivery of any learning, intervention or support that involves direct communication between the teacher and pupil outside of school.

Springfield's Remote Learning Offer is predominantly delivered via the Trust's chosen Virtual Learning Environment (VLE), this is in development as the change from the previous VLE have given the opportunity to investigate the use of Microsoft Teams and Unify as the main drive for online learning.

Communication with pupils

Teachers may wish to support pupils through direct communication. All communication should be professional and should only be done through school email accounts or school approved learning platforms. In all cases, the conversation threads should be logged on the account/platform to allow monitoring and auditing as outlined in the Trust E-Safety policy. If a verbal conversation is required this will be arranged by the teacher and the child's parent/carer.

Personal mobile numbers, and links to social media accounts should not be shared with pupils, including personal YouTube channels and chat groups such as WhatsApp.

Choice and Approval of Learning Platforms

Teams and Unify as a VLE along with specific apps and programmes that have been agreed for purchase by the Principal should be considered approved platforms that are acceptable and safe. Staff should however consider any relevant points listed below when using any online resources, subject learning platforms or communicating with pupils outside of school regardless of the medium used.

Any teacher that wishes to engage pupils in remote or online learning other than Teams or agreed subject learning platforms should seek approval from the Principal.

Video Lessons

Video lessons involves the sharing of instruction through pre-recorded video provided by the teacher or through an approved provider such as the Oak National Academy (DfE) or White Rose Maths.

As part of this, software used will often facilitate the use of discussion boards, group chat, peer-to-peer chat and file sharing. The following protocols should be applied:

- Prior to allowing pupils access to online lessons and live streaming in any given year, parents must be informed and expectations set out.
- Any video lessons should always take place through school approved platforms.
- Teachers and pupils should always access online learning using school accounts that are auditable and can be monitored as outlined in the Trust E-Safety policy.
- Where lessons are delivered using a remote learning product the preferred method of delivery should be the uploading of pre-recoded video instruction by the teacher.
- Live streaming will not be used in Springfield Academy.
- Pre-recorded videos prepared by teachers must have language which is professional and appropriate, including any family members in the background.
- Teachers should wear suitable clothing, as should anyone else in the house who may come into the view of the camera when recording.
- Any computers/devices used for recording by the teacher should be in an appropriate area of the house, where possible not in bedrooms, and against a neutral background to ensure nothing inappropriate or sensitive is in view.
- Any computers/devices used for recording by the teacher should not make visible any personal information related to the teacher/pupil or family i.e. nothing related to phone numbers or addresses.
- Whilst using the 'chat' function on Teams the teacher must ensure that they approve all comments prior to them being made 'public'.
 - Behaviours and expectations with reference to the school E-Safety policy they all signed.
 - Class/group or peer-to-peer chat requires the same behaviour expectations as in school, with group chats visible by all and peer-to-peer chats visible by the teacher.
 - Teachers should ensure that parents and children know how to report any inappropriate behaviour or content that they may experience whilst online and how to report any issues of bullying or safeguarding when working online.

Immediate Remote Education

In order to be prepared for the sudden introduction of remote learning for an individual child or group of children:

- Teacher planning should be made available every day regardless of whether school is open or closed.
- Children should be provided with their login details and for KS1 and KS2 the children should be taught how to login and navigate Teams and Unify.
- Parents and carers will be contacted on day 1 of any absence related to COVID-19 to ensure that their child is able to access the platforms.

In the event of there being no appropriate device or internet access available, home learning workbooks will either be sent home with a child or personally delivered. The class teacher will set appropriate work linked to the curriculum in school.

Wherever possible, steps will be taken to provide a child with an appropriate device to use at home and assistance given with getting internet access in the home.

Curriculum

The aim of Springfield's remote learning curriculum is no different from our in-school curriculum. Remote Learning is simply a different way of delivering our curriculum and is aligned to our classroom curriculum as much as possible. The sequencing of teaching remains the same to ensure that children receive the building blocks that they require to make progress. Teachers will ensure that curricular goals will be as explicit as they are in the classroom.

In line with expectations set out by DfE, children in KS1 (Years 1&2) should be working for approximately 3 hours a day. Children in KS2 (Years 3 – 6) should be working for approximately 4 hours a day.

Activities will be set on a daily basis and will encompass a blend of digital learning and paper or practical activities.

Springfield Academy will:

- Use recorded teaching including Oak National Academy lessons, White Rose Hub lessons and BBC Bitesize videos. These will be followed up with independent learning activities for the children to work through.
- Class teachers may record themselves reading stories, explaining concepts and providing motivational videos for their classes.
- Provide access to electronic reading books across all key stages.
- Provide access to online APP resources such as Lexia, Times Table Rockstars and Bedrock for all children in KS1 and KS2.
- Ensure reading books will be delivered to children's homes as required whilst children can order books from the Education Village Learning Resource Centre, which will also be delivered to your home.
- Ensure appropriate resources are delivered to children's homes if digital learning is not appropriate.

It is recognised that as learning isn't fundamentally different when done remotely, therefore feedback and assessment are crucial.

Teachers will:

- Track, on a daily basis, the engagement of the children in their class to remote working. This will be shared with the Principal on a weekly basis. If there are any concerns with engagement with work or a matter relating to safeguarding these will be shared immediately with a DSL.
- Provide feedback on a daily basis through the marking of work via 'assignments' on Teams , via Tapestry (EYFS), via email or by telephone.
- Provide general class feedback via the chat function on Teams.
- Monitor progress and attainment on Bedrock, Lexia and TTRS and intervene when appropriate.
- Monitor Accelerated Reader assessment data and intervene when appropriate.
- Treat each child and family as an individual and seek to cater for their needs with the support of colleagues and Trust resources.
- Liaise with the SENDCO to ensure that children with SEND are fully catered for and are making progress.
- Communicate with parents and carers to support and advise in terms of remote learning and wellbeing.

Access to appropriate devices

Springfield Academy recognises that access to an appropriate device is crucial for children to engage with digital learning resources. Parents are told to contact school if they don't have an appropriate device to use at home. School will then endeavour to provide one.

Teachers, through monitoring of children's work, will also seek to identify if a child is not able to access an appropriate device and will alert the Principal to this. Steps will then be taken to discuss options with parents.

Delivery for Pupils in Isolation

Whether there are whole year groups in isolation or individual pupils, Haughton academy aims to provide remote learning that ensures pupils continue to make progress while working at home and do not fall behind their peers who are still in school.

Remote learning for small groups of pupils in isolation (individuals or not all of a teaching group)

All staff will be kept up to date about which pupils are isolating (year groups, classes and individuals). Teachers are expected to provide quality remote learning when pupils in their class are in isolation in line with the guidance below:

- The teacher should use the MS class TEAM as a way to communicate and provide work and support the remote learning of those pupils isolating in their teaching groups.
- Work/learning activities set by the teacher should enable pupils to achieve the same success criteria they would in school but from home (they should not be disadvantaged by the quality of the work/learning activities provided).
- The work/learning activities provided should ensure there is no 'catch-up' required when they return, although the usual intervention may be necessary if they have struggled to understand something.
- All of the work should be uploaded to MS TEAMS classes daily and in advance of any lessons taught. Pupils in isolation will be expected to follow their normal in-school timetable when working at home.
- Lesson PowerPoints should be adapted in a way that will enable the pupil to go through the slides and understand any new content/skill development independently.
- Tasks should be set that are as close as possible to what is taking place in the classroom and allow them to practise as they would in the classroom.
- For any independent tasks set, a mark scheme or success criteria should be provided so the pupil can self-assess their own work and learning progress.
- Sometimes the nature of the work and success criteria would make it difficult for the pupils to learn by following an adapted PowerPoint. In such a case the teacher should provide an alternative resource/activity in place of or in addition to the PowerPoint in order to support them reaching the same learning goal. Alternative resources/activities should always include explanation/instruction about the new content/learning and provide pupils with the same opportunities to achieve as their peers still in school.
- In addition to the PowerPoints/resources/activities adapted and provided by the teacher a link to the correct/appropriate lesson from the Oak National Academy should also be provided to provide pupils with additional support.
- An MS TEAMS survey (template provided) could be issued for every remote session so the pupil can give feedback on their learning. The teacher can then use this to provide additional advice/adapt future work and consider any intervention needed for the pupil when they return to school.
- If a pupil does not complete the MS TEAMS Survey the assumption should be made that the pupil has not undertaken the work. The teacher should then phone home to advise the parent/career of this and the requirement to be working when in isolation. If there are any issues with this or the pupil continues to not complete the work/return the survey the head of year should be informed so they can follow this up.

- Where the work being undertaken in school is coursework and it is appropriate for pupils to complete this at home, the teacher should communicate with the individual pupil prior to the lesson regarding what progress should be made with the work. The pupil should be instructed to submit work via MS TEAMS for the teacher to check and where appropriate provide feedback.
- Should the pupil not engage and improve/submit coursework as expected in any given session the teacher should then phone home to advise the parent/career of this and the requirement to be working when in isolation. If there are any issues with this or the pupil continues to not improve/submit coursework as expected the head of year should be informed so they can follow this up.
- Where the work being undertaken in school is coursework and it is not appropriate for pupils to complete this at home, the teacher should expect the pupil to undertake some Seneca activities/revision/creation of flash cards for the exam in this subject or other subjects.

Remote learning for large groups of pupils in isolation (full teaching groups/year groups)

- The teacher should use MS TEAMS in conjunction with the remote learning policy to deliver live online remote sessions.
- Remote sessions should aim to ensure pupils meet the same success criteria as if the pupils were in school being taught.
- It is recommended that a low stakes quiz is displayed at the start of the live session as a structured start/daily review. Due to the increased challenge of learning remotely this kind of review is even more important than in class as it will allow the teacher to go over some assumed prior learning/knowledge so the teacher is confident pupils have the foundations to build upon during the session.
- For each one-hour lesson, the teacher should plan and deliver a live session that lasts a maximum of 30 minutes. During this time the teacher should focus on instruction, modelling, checking pupil understanding and setting independent work.
- For the second 30 minutes the teacher should set work/tasks/activities for the pupils to complete independently and provide mark schemes/success criteria for self-assessment purposes.
- The teacher should remain available on MS TEAMS throughout the remainder of the lesson time for pupils to make contact via the class page or chat should they have questions or need support.
- Any double/triple lessons on the timetable should be treated as individual sessions, with the teacher scheduling a live session for the first 30 minutes of each lesson and setting independent work as outlined above.
- A MS TEAMS survey should be issued for every remote session for the pupil to give feedback on their learning. The teacher can then use this to provide additional advice/adapt future sessions and consider any intervention needed for individuals once back in school.

- If the subject/session is coursework focused, the teacher can use their own judgement to allow pupils ample time to focus on completing and submitting work.
 - The minimum requirement in this instance is at least two live check-in points in each hour even if 5/10 minutes each time to give instructions/check there are no questions.
 - For the remainder of the lesson time the teacher should remain available on MS TEAMS to check work/give feedback or for pupils to make contact via the class page or chat should they need support.
 - Where pupils are working on coursework and there is an ongoing dialogue between teacher and pupil there is no need for pupils to complete a MS TEAMS survey after each session, although this may be a useful way for pupils to feedback on their progress and request support.
- For all live sessions the teacher should download an MS TEAMS register and check attendance.
- The teacher should monitor attendance and should phone home after either one or two missed sessions. The teacher should advise the parent/career of the lack of attendance and the requirement to be attending the MS TEAMS sessions and completing work. If there are any issues with this or the pupil continues to not attend sessions the head of year should be informed so they can follow this up.
